The Amed-Amlapura tour starts from Alam Anda and leads direction south-east along the coast. Around Amed you can see beautiful rice fields. The beautiful bay and Mount Agung can be seen from the viewpoint in Jemeluk. Now our way leads to the famous area of Tirta Gangga which features some of Bali's best views of rice fields. The following three sites were all built by the Kingdom of Karangasem, between 1900 and 1946. First we visit the latest building, the Royal Water Palace, Taman Tirta Gangga. It features beautiful water basins with ornaments from the Rajah period. In Amlapura we visit Pura Agung Palace, built around 1900. The Palace has a typical traditional Balinese structure, but you can see western and Chinese influence in the decoration and old furniture. Outside Amlapura is the picturesque Ujung water palace.
